Save time, space, and money

Finally, you don't have to learn fancy software packages. You don't have to worry whether your developers are using good style and best practices.

StaticAudit is non-invasive in its operation, direct and clear in its evaluations, and may be scheduled to allow management to be assured of progress. Best of all, having studied practices and performed many audits, AuditSoft is uniquely positioned to offer access to the needed software technology without passing along the costs for training and software upgrades to you.

Put dedicated professionals and proven technology to work for you

AuditSoft can accommodate or supplement all of your software engineering needs without the expense of employee wages, benefits, workman's compensation, FICA taxes and training. Our dedicated professionals are prepared and ready when you need them to assist.

With StaticAudit, we can improve the quality of your software. With our software engineering background, we can also improve your processes. AuditSoft puts professionals to work providing artifacts and ideas, so you can focus on your core business.
